Mango wood

The process of obtaining mango wood for our mango bowls involves waiting for a mango tree to mature for approximately 15-20 years.

Once the tree reaches its full size, its fruit production decreases.

To ensure continuous fruit production, mango farmers cut down the mature tree and replace it with younger ones.

Rather than allowing the old wood to be burned by the farmers, we collect it and utilize it to create our mango bowls.

Traditional hand-carved Stone man from Sumba, Indonesia.

In the traditional villages of Sumba, statues like these are placed inside and around the entrance of the hut providing protection and healing to the occupants inside.

The stone men will vary in size and shape.

Go to www.byroom.dk to get more details and see the full range of our Sumba stone men.
